

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

Department of Art, Art History & Design and the Institute for Latino Studies
Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Modern and Contemporary Latino Art History

The Department of Art, Art History, and Design, and the Institute for Latino Studies at the University of Notre Dame, invite applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor specializing in Modern and Contemporary Latino Art History who can also offer cross-cultural/transnational perspectives in both teaching and research. We seek a scholar committed to research and teaching of undergraduate and graduate students in a multi-disciplinary department within a liberal arts college. Ph.D. is required.

The successful applicant will also hold a faculty fellow position in the Institute for Latino Studies and will be expected to connect his/her art historical research and teaching with Latino Studies in other departments in the College of Arts and Letters, the Snite Museum of Art, and the newly created Notre Dame Center for Arts and Culture. The position's tenure home is in Art, Art History, and Design.

The Department of Art, Art History and Design (<http://artdept.nd.edu>) has twenty-one full-time faculty members, including six art historians. The University of Notre Dame is an international Catholic research university and an equal opportunity, affirmative action educator and employer that has a strong institutional commitment to racial, cultural, and gender diversity. We encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups and all interested in a Catholic research university. Salary competitive and includes full benefit package.

To Apply: Please send a letter of interest that clearly addresses how your credentials and experience meet the responsibilities and qualifications of the position; curriculum vitae; writing samples; relevant syllabi of courses you have taught; names and contact information of three references.
