

Study Arabic. Do anything.

98%

of recent Notre Dame Arabic majors found full-time employment, enrolled in graduate school, entered service programs, or joined the military within six months of graduation.

33%
find full-time jobs

- Account executive, AT&T
- Analyst, Avascent Group
- Analyst, Huron Consulting Group
- Associate specialist underwriter, HCC Insurance
- Audit associate, Deloitte
- Business analyst, Capital One
- Case manager, U.S. House of Representatives
- Financial analyst, Phillips Edison & Company
- Fund development coordinator, Big Brothers Big Sisters
- Intern, Dallas Morning News
- Mortgage banker, Quicken Loans
- Program associate, Freedom House

31.5%
go to graduate or professional school

- Epidemiology: University of Louisville
- International security: University of Denver
- Middle Eastern studies: Hebrew University of Jerusalem, University of Chicago
- Law: Baylor University, Cornell University, George Mason University, Indiana University, University of Wisconsin
- Medicine: Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine
- Political science: Princeton University
- Security studies: Georgetown University
- Spanish: New York University – Madrid
- Theology: Boston College

Victoria Braga '11
Arabic major
Judicial law clerk, Executive Office for Immigration Review, U.S. Department of Justice

J.D., George Washington University Law School

"The most beneficial part of the Arabic program at Notre Dame is its comprehensiveness. Majoring in Arabic requires students to take language, literature, history, and religion classes. The Arabic faculty are approachable, supportive, and genuinely invested in their students' education and success. The coursework is interesting, informative, and relevant.

"As an immigration attorney, many of the cases I work on involve Arabic speakers and individuals from countries in the Middle East. My proficiency in Arabic, as well as my understanding of history, religion, politics, and culture in the Middle East help me to understand the issues in these cases, and to produce well-reasoned and well-informed work.

"In an increasingly connected world, employees' foreign language skills, knowledge of other cultures, and expansive worldviews are critical to the success of most companies, organizations, and government agencies. An educational background in Arabic is unique and contemporarily relevant — it makes a student an attractive job applicant, regardless of their chosen career path."

17.5% enter service programs

- AmeriCorps, St. Petersburg, Florida
- Alliance for Catholic Education
- Match Next, Boston, Massachusetts
- Mission Year, Houston, Texas
- Open Arms Home for Children, South Africa
- Peace Corps, South America

- Student Conservation Association, Yosemite Village, California
- Teach for America, Las Vegas, Nevada
- Urban Teacher Center, Baltimore, Maryland

16%
join the military

Source: Career Center First Destination Reports, 2010-2014

Curriculum requirements

- 6 courses in Arabic language
- 1 course in Arabic literature
- 1 course in Middle Eastern history
- 1 course in Islamic studies
- 1 elective

Study everything. Do anything.

The Program in Arabic and Middle Eastern Studies
304 O'Shaughnessy Hall 574-631-7195 arabic.nd.edu arabic@nd.edu

Director of Undergraduate Studies
Ghada Bualuan gbualuan@nd.edu

