

Study German. Do anything.

100%

of recent Notre Dame German majors found full-time employment, enrolled in graduate school, entered service programs, or launched independent projects within six months of graduation.

45% find full-time jobs

Advisory forensics associate, KPMG
Analyst, Cornerstone Research
Applications specialist, Perten Instruments
English teaching assistant, Germany
Financial management program, GE
Project associate, Deloitte

Project manager, Epic Systems
Systems integration consultant, Accenture
Teacher, Marian High School
Teacher, Pegasus Recruiting, South Korea

8% enter service programs

Alliance for Catholic Education, Baton Rouge, Louisiana
Catholic Charities, Baltimore, Maryland

Marcus Liddell '14
German major
Fulbright English teaching assistant, Greifswald, Germany

"German is the language of a culture with a rich history in music, mathematics, science, philosophy, literature, art, and politics, and Germany today is a major player in global business and politics. Studying German means studying so much more than the language itself, and it offers a rich diversity of subjects that in many ways exemplifies the purpose of a liberal arts education.

"I think differently in German. I think more carefully, and that safeguards me against a lot of simple errors I might make in my native language. German is also more precise, and there are differences to what I can express and how I can express it when I choose to use German. Speaking German has allowed me to expand my mind to an extent that no other skill has given me."

42% go to graduate or professional school

Accountancy: DePaul University

Clinical psychology: University of Denver

Economic geography: Johann Wolfgang Goethe University, Germany

History: State University of New York

Law: IIT Chicago-Kent

Medicine: University of Kentucky

Music education: Elmhurst College

Physical therapy: Columbia University, Texas Women's University

Public health: George Washington University

5% launch independent projects

Curriculum requirements

Intermediate German II

Advanced Composition and Conversation

Introduction to German Literature and Culture

7 electives at the 30000 or 40000 level

Source: Career Center First Destination Reports, 2010-2014

Study everything. Do anything.

Department of German and Russian Languages and Literatures
318 O'Shaughnessy Hall 574-631-5572 germanandrussian.nd.edu grl@nd.edu

Director of Undergraduate Studies
Denise Della Rossa dellarossa.1@nd.edu

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

College of Arts and Letters