

Study Economics. Do anything.

99%

of recent Notre Dame Economics started full-time jobs, enrolled in graduate school, entered service programs, joined the military, or launched independent projects within six months of graduation.

82% started full-time jobs

Advisory technology consultant, PwC
Analyst, JP Morgan
AR specialist, Nike
Assistant marketing manager, Wiley
Associate consultant, Stax
Associate underwriter, James River Insurance Group
Basketball analytics assistant, San Antonio Spurs
Brand specialist, Amazon
Business sales leadership development program, AT&T
Business technology analyst, Deloitte
Chief of staff, Michigan state representative
Consultant, Booz Allen Hamilton
Corporate research resident, Ernst & Young
Digital analyst, Accenture
Economist, U.S. Department of Labor
Equity analyst, Goldman Sachs
Financial analyst, Under Armour
Financial management program, General Electric

Global markets analyst, Deutsche Bank
Global treasury solutions analyst, Bank of America Merrill Lynch
Investment consulting analyst, Mercer
Management and program analyst, FBI
Manager of strategic initiatives, Catholic Charities
Marketing associate, Putnam Investments
Operations coordinator, National Geographic Operations leadership program, Discover Financial Services
Product management analyst, Wells Fargo
Project manager, Epic Systems
Research fellow, Yale University
Revenue management analyst, United Airlines
Software developer, Microsoft
Technology consultant, Eze Software Group
Trader, JP Morgan

11% enrolled in graduate or professional school

Chinese language: Jiao Tong University, China
Computer science: Carnegie Mellon University
Ecology and evolutionary biology: Princeton University
Economics: Columbia University, Duke University, Stanford University, University of California-Berkeley, University of Hagen, University of Wisconsin
Interreligious studies: Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas
Law: Columbia University, Fordham University, Georgetown University, Loyola University, Saint Louis University, University of Michigan, University of Virginia, University of Texas
Medicine: Brown University, Ohio State University, University of Michigan
Philosophy: University of Texas
Public policy: Harvard University, University of Southern California
Theology: Yale University

Greg Duffy '15
Economics major

First: Research analyst, Pandora
Now: Senior business strategy and operations analyst, Vevo

"If you want to better understand the world around you, Economics is a great major. You can tailor it to almost any interest you have. From a statistical and data perspective, economics has almost endless applications.

"You realize you have all the necessary tools to answer some really complex questions that are in political debates, that policymakers deal with. There are empirical answers to a lot of issues, given the right tools."

4% entered service programs

Alliance for Catholic Education, Baton Rouge, Louisiana
Holy Cross Overseas Lay Ministries, Chile
Inner City Teaching Corps, Chicago
Open Arms Home for Children, South Africa
Peace Corps, Dominican Republic
Teach for America, North Carolina

1% joined the military

Source: Center for Career Development
First Destination Reports, 2014-2018

1% launched independent projects

Curriculum Requirements Economics Major

- 2-semester Principles of Economics sequence
- 2 intermediate economic theory courses (Calculus II is a prerequisite)
- Statistics for Economists
- Econometrics
- 4 additional Economics courses (including one writing-intensive course or a senior thesis project)

Study everything. Do anything.

Department of Economics 3060 Jenkins Nanovic Halls
574.631.3332 economics.nd.edu econ@nd.edu

Director of Undergraduate Studies
Mary Flannery mflanne2@nd.edu

UNIVERSITY OF
NOTRE DAME

ARTS AND LETTERS