

Study Irish. Do anything.

100%

of recent Notre Dame Irish Language and Literature majors and minors started full-time jobs, enrolled in graduate schools, entered service programs, or launched independent projects within six months of graduation.

18% started full-time jobs

Associate director, Community Counseling Services
Member advocate, PURE Insurance
Research assistant, Rand Corporation
Security specialist, Select Medical
Teacher, Great Hearts Academy

36% entered service programs

Alliance for Catholic Education
House of Brigid
Indianapolis Teaching Fellows

37% enrolled in graduate or professional school

Archaeology: University of Arizona
Conflict transformation and social justice: Queen's University Belfast
English: Boston College
Gender studies: University of Wisconsin
Medical physics: University of Kentucky
Medicine: Louisiana State University

9% launched independent projects

Source: Notre Dame Office of Strategic Planning and Institutional Research reports, 2014-2018

Curriculum requirements

Irish Language and Literature major

Intermediate Irish II

Great Irish Writers (Survey I)

Modern Literature in Irish (Survey II)

5 electives

PLUS:

Advanced Irish I and II (language focus)

or 2 additional electives (literature focus)

Irish Language and Literature supplementary major

Intermediate Irish II

Great Irish Writers (Survey I)

Modern Literature in Irish (Survey II)

3 electives

PLUS:

Advanced Irish I and II (language focus)

or 2 additional electives (literature focus)

Jack McGinn '17
Irish Language and Literature major
Master's degree student,
modern Irish, National University of Ireland Galway

"Majoring in Irish provided me with incredible opportunities and experiences in and out of the classroom. Small classes with exceptional and dedicated faculty allowed me to engage more deeply with the study of all things related to Ireland. These brilliant professors helped develop my critical-thinking and communication skills in both English and Irish.

"Studying Irish gave me the opportunity to spend my summers studying in Gaeltacht and interning in Dublin. This experience working in a foreign language and in a foreign country not only improved my language skills, but it helped to develop me professionally as well. Living and working in Ireland allowed me to experience aspects of the country that I could not simply learn in the classroom, while also putting my experience as an American in a new perspective.

"Majoring in Irish Language and Literature has been a life-changing decision which has provided me with unbelievable opportunities to develop academically, professionally, and personally."

Study everything. Do anything.

Department of Irish Language and Literature 574-631-1721
3113 Jenkins Nanovic Halls irishlanguage.nd.edu irll@nd.edu

Director of Undergraduate Studies
Tara MacLeod tara.a.macleod.15@nd.edu

ARTS AND LETTERS

