Applications are invited from specialists in early Greek literature and culture for a two-year position as Visiting Assistant Professor in the Department of Classics at the University of Notre Dame to begin in July 2013. We welcome especially applications from candidates whose teaching and research interests include Homeric literature and the material culture of the Aegean in the late Bronze Age. Applicants should be prepared to teach courses in Greek and Latin language and literature, and to offer courses in classical literature and culture in translation.

Review of complete applications will begin November 15, 2012. Preliminary interviews will take place at the Annual Meeting of the AIA/APA in Seattle (January 2013). Please send letters of application and complete dossiers, including three letters of recommendation, to Professor Elizabeth Mazurek, Chair, Department of Classics, 304 O'Shaughnessy Hall, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, IN 46556, USA.

The University of Notre Dame is an international Catholic research university and an equal opportunity educator and employer with strong institutional and academic commitments to racial, cultural, and gender diversity. Persons of color, women, members of under-represented groups, and those attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are encouraged to apply. Information about Notre Dame, including the University’s mission statement, is available at http://www.nd.edu. Information about the Department of Classics can be found at http://classics.nd.edu.