Learn from our expert faculty: micro and macro theory, econometrics, labor economics, monetary economics, international economics, environmental economics, and more.

Understand the complexity.

Your mission:

think clearly and critically about the world using the economics paradigm and equip yourself with the economic and analytical tools needed to shape public policy.

Major in economics, major in international economics, or minor in business economics.

What happened in 1929?
What happened in 2008?
Will it happen again?

Economists study where we’ve been and where we’re going.